This founding document sets out the executive structure proposed in the draft Covenant. It has no legal force: no ministry or body exists, and none exercises authority.

Part 1 — The nine ministries

Nine ministries are proposed, and no more: Treasury & Finance; Digital State & Registries; Resilience & Civil Protection; Foreign Affairs & Justice; Health & Social Well-being; Education & Science; Maritime Affairs & Ports; Infrastructure & Energy; Agriculture & Environment.

Part 2 — Independent bodies

An Auditor-General, a Registry & Privacy Ombudsman and a Reserve Bank are proposed as independent bodies, answerable to the Covenant Assembly and not to ministers.

Part 3 — The Gazette

In the founding phase, the Gazette publishes founding documents, design studies and planning notes. They have no legal force.

Part 4 — Relations with other states

Aletheia would approach other states only openly and by consent, seeking recognition once its first platform is built.
