Design notes for a travel document of the Sovereign Covenant State of Aletheia, drawn up with reference to international travel-document conventions. They are not a regulation and have no legal force. No document will be issued unless Aletheia is established as a state and has the lawful authority to do so.

Note 1 — Form

A booklet in the conventional passport size, with a machine-readable zone on the data page.

Note 2 — Appearance

A Covenant Burgundy cover bearing the national arms in gold foil, with the name of the State in the five proposed official languages.

A laser-engraved polycarbonate data page with a tactile surface relief, a ghost image and micro-text bearing the opening words of Article 1 of the Covenant.

Note 3 — Electronic chip

A contactless chip holding the data page, a facial image and, where the law requires it, fingerprints, protected by modern access control.

Note 4 — Public keys

Signing certificates would be published for border systems, but only if a document were ever lawfully issued.

Note 5 — Status

These notes describe a design only. Aletheia issues no passports, travel or identity documents, and does not sell them.

Founding-phase record without legal force. Aletheia is not a recognised state. The English text is authoritative.
